Students rock in Romulus

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Billed as a world premiere in Romulus, "Rock Around the Decades" was a blast from the past when the sixth grade students at Wick School presented an original musical drama before hundreds of local music lovers. Under the guidance of music teacher, Judy Thompson, and fifth and sixth grade teachers Diane Golka, Gretchen Firestone and J.T. Washington, the semester-long project was completed.

"The students wrote the script, designed the set, directed and acted in the play," said Thompson. "The theme for the musical was American music from the 40s through the 80s. The play showed how pop music of today has borrowed many ideas from the past."

In attendance were such mega-stars as Michael Jackson, Whitney Houston, the Beatles, the Supremes, Elvis Presley, Bob Seger, Stevie Wonder and Bill Haley. Dancers demonstrated the "stroll," the "bunny hop" and the "hustle."

The project began with the idea of folk music in America but later was narrowed down to include just the last few decades. "Students did research and talked with their parents and relatives about what music was like "way back then." They compared the style and the lyrics. There was a lot of reading and discussion about the political influences of the day," explained Thompson.

"Rock Around the Decades" was such a huge success that the students took their production off Broadway. They produced an evening performance in the high school and had several matinees including one at Halecreek Elementary School.

"The greatest benefit for the kids was for them to see each others' talent," noted Thompson. "All the students were involved and everybody's part was important. They didn't have to star in the play to be a star with their own talents. It was tremendous experience for these sixth graders."

"When we first started this project, nobody wanted to participate. When we finished, everybody wanted to do everything and were capable of doing it," emphasized Thompson.

"It's more realistic and more rewarding when the kids come up with the idea or topic and let it evolve. They learn life's experiences on a professional level. Everyone has the opportunity to display their talent. And there's no doubt, they have it," she said.

The Romulus rockers are: Alison Cope as Sunshine, Bobby Lazo as Elvis Presley and Angela Hollis, Chante Tipton and Salena Washington as the Supremes.

Residents to rally for jobs with Downriver Agency July 1

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Beginning next week, Romulus residents can pursue jobs and training services with the Downriver/Monroe Private Industry Council (PIC).

Governor James Blanchard recently redesignated the shift of the city of Romulus from the Wayne County PIC to the Downriver PIC. Last October, Romulus joined the Downriver Community Conference (DCC), a consortium of 17 Wayne County communities and all of Monroe County.

"The city of Romulus asked to be in the service delivery area of the DCC," said Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally. "The new disignation will acheive positive results. Downriver has an extensive program for job training and business assistance. The program is different than anything we've encountered before. It makes good sense to be with them."

"Fifty-one percent must be from the private sector according to officials. Employment services are offered to both youths and adults. Thirty-three cents of every dollar is spent on someone under the age of 22," said Cathy Allesandro, director of employment and job training for DCC.

"Last year we enrolled 2,500 people and two weeks ago 1,300 of them were still working," she noted.

"Our philosophy is help us help them," said Dewitt Henry, executive director of the DCC.

"It will take a few months to learn the needs of Romulus. But we have a good working relationship with the community. We are very compatible. We share the same goals and objectives. It's a good marraige," Henry conceded. The Downriver Private Industry Council number for employment information is 283-9700.

City may lose disaster aid

A disaster in Romulus?

"It could happen," said Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally as she requested that members of the city council adopt a resolution opposing any decrease in the amount of money allocated by the Federal Government for the purpose of assisting local municipalities in restoring damaged public facilities in the event of a disaster.

"There are many possiblities for incidents that could endanger our local population. We not only surround the fifth largest airport in the nation and a regional facility, but there are two federal expressways and two major railroads in Romulus," explained McAnally.

"The city of Romulus has been labeled by the State Emergency Management office as a disaster waiting to happen," she added.

Federal money is distributed to local municipalities through the state by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). According to Val Vitols, financial officer for the Agency, "FEMA always used to pay 75 percent of the eligible costs resulting from a disaster. The federal government has proposed new criteria specifically about eligibility. FEMA will receive public comments for 60 days and hopes to implement the revised plan by Oct. 1," said Vitols.

Under the new guidelines FEMA would only pay 10 to 50 percent of the cost to local govenments to repair damaged public facilities, depending on population and per capita income.

The motion was unanimously approved by the council and copies of the resolution forwarded to Senators Carl Levin and Donald Reigle and Congressman William Ford.

FEMA has two basic programs, according to Vitols: the Individual Assistance and Public Assistance. "There are minimal changes in the Individual and family Grant Program. Eligible victims would still be able to receive up to $5,000 after a disaster," he said.

"I hope we never have to use any disaster aid. We've been fortunate to date," said McAnally.

Local stores shelve Excedrin

All Excedrin in capsule form has been pulled from the shelves of local drugstores following the deaths of two men in the Seattle, Washington area attributed to ingesting capsules of the non-prescription painkiller tainted with cyanide.

None of the suspected tainted batch 5H102 was found by Family Pharmacy on Goddard Road, Romulus City Drugs on Wayne Road nor any of the 19 outlets of Sentry Drugstores headquarted in Romulus on Metroplex Drive, according to company spokepersons.

"Customers are guaranteed a total refund by Bristol-Meyers," said Joan Turcotte, spokesperson for Sentry Drugstores which are all located within the Detroit tri-county area.

Ken Whise, owner of Family Pharmacy said, "We pulled all our capsule products of Exedrin from our shelves even before we received a letter from Bristol-Meyers on Monday. It's very unfortunate but this is our only defense. Other people will have to suffer because of some crazy person. We'll make do. We have to."

His opinion is shared by another local owner and druggist, Joe Alessi of Romulus City Drugs on Wayne Road. "We didn't find any of the suspected batch but still pulled capsule Exedrin from the shelves. We followed the same procedure as we did with the tainted Tylenol and Contac capsules," Alessi said.

"People will just have to examine drug containers more carefully. As long as you have these kooks out there, drugs in capsule form are from "days gone by." They have forced us to change the way we take medicine. Check for visible evidence of tampering. It's usually there. That's basically it," Alessi stated.

Task force gets results: No toxins found in water

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Ethelene glycol could not be detected in the soil and water samples tested by both an airport consulting firm and the Department of Natural Resources.

Task force members, including representatives from the airport, state, county and local government departments, met last week at the airport.

"Nothing was detectable in our soil samples and I'm not surprised," said Catherine Morse, DNR water specialist. "Ethylene glycol chemically breaks down quickly depending on the concentration. The chemical has a very short life. In all our samples, not a molecule was found," she said.

"The meeting went well," said Michael Conway, deputy director of Wayne County public information. "The airport geologists oi Neyer, Tiseo and Hindo Limited. They found no measurable trace of any hazardous or toxic chemical. The only chemical detected was "toluene" a element found in jet fuel and was totally expected," he said.

"The results of the report were received politely by the task force. From the evidence that appears, we are seeing the light at the end of the tunnel. Airport officials have again reiterated their commitment to solve this problem," Conway stated.

"Fifteen soil samples were taken from different locations. Thick vegetation and decomposing glycol places demands on the oxygen supply in the ponds. The ponds need to be oxydized," he said.

Charles Wiswell was one of three citizens on the task force present at the meeting. He is not enthused nor "completely satisfied with the results."

He said, "We are taking a tongue-in-cheek attitude. They talked of draining the Frank and Poet Drain and the Killfoil Drain and cleaning them. The process would take four days with no flooding involved. They have our permission but would just like to be informed ahead of time.

"Even if the water is clean and the terrible odor gone, nothing was said about a permanent solution to prevent this problem from reoccuring in the future. I asked if a water treatment facility was ever considered. Airport officials said it would not be practical but would consider building one. They admitted there is a problem and said they really want to do something. That's a step in the right direction," Wiswell conceded.

Richard Jamison, director of airports has said that he is committed to the expansion of the airport within Wayne County in a rational, logical way. "I feel confident and positive about the results of this meeting," said Conway.

Triumph over tragedy typifies the 1986 Romulus graduate

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

One word describe Romulus High School 1986 graduates. According to students, teachers and parents, they are and have become known as the "tragedy" class. For in the course of the past year, the class of 1986 has lost a teacher and three students, each in very tragic circumstances.

"This class has been through a lot," said Amy Vavro who was selected by teachers as the top all-around female student of the 1986 class. Vavro and Steve Rodd, chosen as the top male student, share strong sentiments and reflections which they believe are typical of the feelings of their fellow students regarding the tragic incidents of the past year.

The top all-around male and female Romulus students for 1986 are Steve Rodd and Amy Vavro.

Both Rodd and Vavro were National Honor Society members. Rodd was president this past year while Vavro served as president of the student council. Rodd earned a grade point average of 3.8 while Vavro earned a 3.4 average. Rodd will pursue a career in oceanography and marine biology at University of Michigan and Vavro will fulfill a lifelong dream and study education at Michigan State University. Both are the middle of three children and lifetime residents of Romulus.

"It's been a rough year," said Rodd.

"But it definitely brought our class together," conceded Vavro. "We had to really help each other. I learned to appreciate my friends because suddenly, they could be gone tomorrow. I think our class can now accept life and death a little easier. You remember the individuals and the good times you had with them. Life goes on," she said.

Toward the end of last year, Mr. Robert Brock, the health and occupations teacher died suddenly. "It blew my mind away," recalled Rodd about hearing the news. 'He was always smiling and involved with everything. It was hard for his students to accept. The school did establish a scholarship in his name," said Rodd.

> "We were the underdogs. But we survived and came back to win. I'm really glad I decided to go to Romulus High School."

"It was around homecoming that Mike Sperry was killed instantly when a truck hit him. It put a real damper on the festivities," said Vavro who organized many of the homecoming activites.

And about one month later, Ben Davidson who played football and had many friends also met an untimely death. "We were pretty good friends. At first the rumors circulated, and then an announcement was made over the PA for a moment of silence," said Rodd.

"The news strikes you in a funny kind of way, especially when it's someone your own age," added Vavro.

"But the death of Bobby O'Day was the worst," agreed Vavro and Rodd.

"It wasn't even his fight," said Rodd. "I forget when I heard the news. The school was closed for two days. The funeral services were in the school auditorium. It was difficult but it made people think. All the different school cliques pulled together. Everyone was devastated. His pastor preached a short message about life and our nation built on trust in God. That when something like this happens, we all need Christ.

"His talk really made you think. What happens after death? What would happen to you? he asked, " Rodd recalled.

"A friend of mine called me just after it happened," said Vavro. "He said Bobby O'Day got stabbed once in school. At first, I didn't think about it much. He called back two hours later to say he died. It didn't really hit me until I saw the evening news and pictures of the school hallway and a recount of the whole story.

"They say your senior year is supposed to be so much fun. At the funeral, guys who usually try so hard to be big and macho were crying like babies," said Vavro.

"Parents freaked out about school security. I don't think there it could have been prevented but it gave the city of Romulus a bad name. But the guy who did this was from another school and people don't seem to remember that," interjected Vavro.

Two months later, the Romulus High School basketball team placed first in the A division for the state and two school bands placed first in state competitions.

"After all these deaths, finally something positive. We were motivated and uplifted by this. Again, everybody got into it," noted Rodd.

"It was a lot of fun," said Vavro. "We were pulled together again. Our cheering section was the best. The basketball team was never expected to win because they always came from behind."

"We were the underdogs," stated Rodd. "But we survived and came back to win. I'm really glad I decided to go to Romulus High School. Every year got better. So many things happened and the class went through a lot but we made friends."

> "They say your senior year is supposed to be so much fun. At the funeral, guys who usually try so hard to be big and macho were crying like babies."

"This has been home for a long time. It's like giving up a 12-year habit. It is exciting to leave school but scary at the same time," said Vavro. "There were a lot of good times."

10 teachers test retirement

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

"No more teaching, no more books, no more students' dirty looks," might be the refrain in the Romulus School district as 10 teachers retire this summer.

"There have never been this many teachers retire at one time," said Dr. William Bedell, superintendant of Romulus Schools.

The reason for this sudden surge of "retire-itis" is approval of Act 91 last year which among other things "provides significant increases to the retirement package for public school employees."

Within Act 91 is the "Rule of 80 Retirement Plan," which provides "Under the Rule of 80 Plan, the total of a member's age and credited service must equal or be greater than 80 as of the retirement allowance effective date."

"Although 37 teachers were eligible to retire under the new plan only 10 have actively sought retirement. It was a retirement package the teachers just couldn't refuse," said Bedell.

Together these teachers have taught a total of 211 years in the Romulus School System. "Many were not ready to go," admitted Bedell. "But through their retirement, the schools will get some new blood."

The new Romulus retirees include Eugene Barr who during his 19 years was at one time principal of Barth, Beverly, Hayti, Merriman and Wick Elementary Schools.

James Bailey taught 30 years, "all in the math department. I liked math because when you finish a problem, you're finished," said Bailey who also served as department chairman and Romulus Education Association representative.

Leola Brownfield "has devoted 20 years of dedicated, loyal and outstanding service to the students of Romulus as a teacher," school officials said.

Ella Darnell has taught 31 years, most recently in the high school math department. "She has an exuberance of spirit, a clarity of instruction and a singleness of purpose that is unwavering," officials said.

Robert Dial with 19 years of service, "has been a counselor, typing instructor, taught business law, personal finance and record keeping and is defintely an "organization man," said officials.

Amy Jones has taught for 20 years most recently at Hayti Elementary School. Robert Long taught for 29 years, most recently at the Junior High School. Mollie Rivers devoted 21 years and retires from Wick Elementary this month. Jessie Simmons served 21 years in the education profession. She retires from Hale Creek. Russell Woinowsk has 20 years experience teaching high school mathematics.

"They leave Romulus with reluctance," said officials. "Collectively, they stated the best advice that they could give students at Romulus High Schools is to "study hard and set your goals high in order to achieve your potential." We say farewell to some very familiar faces," officials concluded.

Adult education awarded

"It's never too late," was the message Bill Smith, community eduction director had for Romulus Adult High School graduates at commencement recently.

"This was one of our most successful years ever. Seventy students completed requirements for their high school diplomas and 101 adults passed the General Educational Development high school equivalency exam," he added.

Commencement excercises were staged in the school auditorium where more than 700 family and friends "turned out to pay tribute to the proud graduates."

"Four graduates were honored for their outstanding personal commitment to completing adult high school. Jerry Clark, George Grima, Brenda Kelly and Donna Korp were presented the Lorena Burton Determined Student Award in memory of the school administrator who originated adult education in Romulus," Smith said.

Community service awards were given to Vicki Stott, a Department of Social Services caseworker and George Miller, a training specialist with the Chevrolet-Pontiac-Canada facility in Romulus for their contributions to Romulus High School over the course of the school year.

"Feelings of pride and accomplishment dominated the festivities. The ceremony marked the end of a great deal of hard work and sacrifice on the part of all graduates," Smith noted.

Summer registration for adult high school classes will begin on July 1 at the Adult Education Center on 11401 Olive Street until the start of classes on Sept. 15. Referrals and registrations will also be taken for the Adult Basic Education Learn-to-Read program. More information is available by phoning Ed Clark at 941-0610.

Collision causes deer damage

In an unusual incident, a deer who by local law is protected from hunters, was struck and fatally injured by a Romulus police patrol car on Eureka Road early Monday morning.

At 4:14 a.m., Officers Greg Booker and Kirk Blanchard were traveling eastbound on Eureka west of Merriman Road when a deer ran in front of the vehicle and was fatally injured, according to Lieutenant Leonard Rukkila of the Romulus Police Department.

"It's very unusual for something like this to happen around here. We've have about one car/deer accident per year. But none have ever involved a police car. Damage to the police car was about $2,100," said Rukkila.

Several farms still remain south of the airport. "I've never seen any deer in the area before," said Rukkila who added that rifle hunting is illegal in Romulus.

"The patrol car hit the deer diagonally off the side of the road damaging the right front fender and the passenger door. Deer hair was spread all over the inside. There was no time to slow up. Both officers had their seatbelts on and were not injured," Rukkila said.

Breakfast is served

The Cooperative Education Program at Romulus Senior High School sponsored the 13th Annual Co-op Breakfast at the Holiday Inn in Romulus last month.

"What a delighful way to begin a morning!" said Barbara Boehmer, of employee relations at Federal Mogul Corporation who with 31 other area businesses participated in the yearlyprogram which employed 59 Romulus students for up to 15 hours per week this past year. "The Co-op Breakfast was the highlight of my day and I want to express my appreciation for being invited," she added.

The program coordinators were Mike Teasdale with the marketing, distribution and office careers, Doug Hoffman with trade and industry careers and Evelyn Hopewell with health careers. Four outstanding co-op students received awards during the breakfast.

Dr. William Bedell, who was the guest speaker, noted how much emphasis community leaders and school officials place on young people receiving quality education and that the co-op program prepares them "for the real world."

Boehmer said, "This was my first contact with the co-op program. I found the students eager, interested and willing to learn. They learned quickly and were very valuable employees."

Illiteracy encountered

There's a hidden problem in the United States but Romulus Adult Education Director Bill Smith, through the program he administers, is doing something about uncovering it. The problem is adult illiteracy.

A Literacy Council has been formed to help coordinate basic education services to adults who live in the Romulus area according to Smith.

"It is becoming more difficult for adults to hide their lack of reading skills as the number of semi-skilled jobs decline in the workforce. Retraining programs are being offered by companies but many employees to not possess the basic academic skills needed to take advantage of these programs," emphasized Smith.

Residents who would like to serve on the Romulus Literacy Council or become volunteer tutors in the Basic Education program or refer potential students can phone 941-0610.

Ficano: County experience is campaign focus election '86

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

With about three years of experience as a department head in county government, Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano is riding high on his past record. In fact, Ficano feels it's this past experience and expertise in county matters that will win him the seat of Wayne County Executive this fall.

Wayne County Executive candidate Robert Ficano

"If you look at county-wide experience, I'm the only one who has that experience," Ficano said of his candidacy.

The current county sheriff has been in his position since 1983 after being named to the job by William Lucas in a somewhat controversial move. To Ficano's credit are the balancing of the budget in the sheriff's department, reduction of prison inmate costs by $30 per prisoner per day as well as the establishment of a task force designed to curb drug use among teenagers, he said.

Ficano also was the key force behind a mounted-police patrol for the county parks as well as a double-bunking concept in the county jail, a concept before considered politically damanging and illegal by the judiciary.

"Overall, I think everybody saw what the (sheriff's) department has done. I think we have successfully run it," Ficano said.

The county-executive-hopeful has centered his campaign around three key issues – economic development, crime and fiscal equity. Ficano said that the three issues go hand-in-hand, as families and businesses won't locate where they don't feel safe and the slow economic base created from such a trend doesn't breed fiscal equity.

To combat crime, Ficano said he would take a tougher stance against first-time offenders. The county sheriff said that with the current jail-space problem in the state, first-time offenders and those convicted of lesser crimes are many times released and go unpunished, aspects of the judicial system which must be changed, according to the county-executive-hopeful.

Ficano also pointed to the ample supply of water and resources in the county as the components of his position for a more pro-active economic growth picture. If elected, Ficano said he waould increase the staff of the economic development department and use promotional and development techniques to attract new industry to potential areas of economic boom the aiport and downriver communities to name a few.

With crime tackled and new industry coming in, Ficano feels that the economic picture for the county can become brighter. The county-executive-hopeful pointed to the successful job of the state Commerce Department in promoting state business and said that a similar technique could be employed locally to develop new economic base, new jobs and new financial prosperity to the area.

A Detroit native, Ficano was the deputy county clerk from 1981 to 1982 before becoming county sheriff. He also was the assistant city attorney for the city of Westland and worked as an attorney in his private law practice.

At age 33 Ficano see his political future as bright and hopes that voters see his current intentions not as ones to boost his ego, but ones to restore county government to a cooperative and prosperous condition And it's his past experience that Ficano feels will turn these hopes into realities.

Candidate profiles

The above is the second in a series of candidate profiles for the county executive's seat. Candidates wishing to be spotlighted should address their intentions to Ray Day, news editor, Associated Newspapers, P.O. Box 578, Wayne, MI 48184. Phone calls will be accepted at 729-4000.

Truly a 'Good Samaritan'

Last Wednesday morning, police officers from many communities paid their final tribute to fellow officer, Leslie Warden. Police officers from neighboring cities and distant communities, including a representative from Officer Warden's department in Roswell, Ga., joined the long funeral procession of law enforcement officers who paid their last respects to their fallen comrade.

Although technically Officer Warden did not die in the line of duty, it was his dedication to duty and a regard for his fellow man which placed him in the situation which resulted in his death.

The officer, who formerly served 12 years in the Westland Police Department, was employed as a member of the Roswell Police Department at the time of his death. While off-duty, Officer Warden stopped to assist victims of an injury accident. While assisting the traffic accident victims, he was fatally injured in a second accident.

It was a tragedy that a "Good Samaritan" was killed while giving assistance to the accident victims – an act that many passersby would not have stopped to do. And, ironic that he performed his act of good will while he was off duty and not obligated, other than morally so, to render aid to the victims.

Still, we must acknowledge that it is an act that we have come to expect from those who serve in our law enforcement agencies. We, as citizens, expect officers of the law to walk the extra mile and to do the special services that we may choose not to do. Although we have our brief moments of acknowlegement and appreciation, the truth is that the majority of the time, we take for granted the deeds that our done by our men in blue.

Perhaps, it is because they tend to be there when we need them, that their presence becomes expected rather than appreciated. And, at the times that they are not there to quickly respond to our need, we become irritated and impatient due to our high – perhaps, sometimes unrealistic – expectations.

It is in times such as these when we can reflect on the truth that there is no greater love "than when a man lays down his life for his neighbor." Not because it is his duty to do so, but because the "Good Samaritan" sees his fellow man in need and cannot in good conscience pass by without rendering aid.

While we are sadden by the death, we are inspired by the example. We salute you, Officer Warden!

And, we also salute our police departments and the men and women who, like Officer Warden, are called upon to come to our aid and, at some time, may be placed in a position to lay down their lives for the men, women and children in their home town.

A free hat doesn't make a free press

I have long held an unwavering confidence in the American people, a confidence I admit somewhat akin to a belief in God in that it is a matter which one cannot argue with absolute documentation.

There is, admittedly, a concern about the trends our American freedoms are taking these days, most particularly the freedom of the press. It's about here that some of you will yawn, stop reading and turn the page, for there is nothing more boring to read about or listen to than further discussion of a subject we have heard and read about since childhood and consider as familiar to our way of life as the American flag.

But that complacency, at least in my case, was shaken somewhat during a conversation I had with a naturalized American last week. During a Grand Prix reception at Greenfield Village, a doctor of German descent and I struck up a conversation. Learning I was a newspaper publisher, my new friend explained that he had some serious concerns about the present direction media in America are taking. "I'm terribly concerned about what I'm seeing today. They think it can't happen here, but it could all happen all over again," he said.

Obviously, my interest level rose markedly, particularly as he began to talk about his days in the Hitler Youth Corps. Although he was articulate and his tales interesting, I still hadn't quite caught his drift.

"On television we see interviews that have a tremendous impact on public opinion. What happens when media powers decide, perhaps only by inference, that certain groups are bad, and that something ought to be done about them," he said. I began to piece his thoughts together with some concerns of my own about the eroding freedoms in our country today. He's right, and there seem to be too few voices heard in protest because...well, it's not all that important. They're only small infringements after all, or are they?

What do we know about the people who are more and more controlling our opinions through the media that provides the information in our daily newspapers and on the nightly news?

In Detroit they are talking about the Joint Operating Agreement between the Detroit Free Press and the Detroit News. The Free Press has long been controlled, as are the other Knight-Ridder newspapers, from corporate headquarters in Miami. The Evening News has fallen into the hands of Allen Neuharth and company at Gannett.

When we look across the country, most of the large, broadsheet properties have changed ownership recently, as have the television networks. And who are these people now in control of our free press? What do you know about them, their motives, philosophies, financial ties, ambitions? And what alternatives do you have to the news that they provide?

What is his concern, you're probably asking about now? A lack of access to information? Nonsense, you say, but I'm not so sure. Control of the media in America is falling into fewer and fewer hands.

It has been suggested by many that the JOA will kill off all the local newspapers, such as this one. Well, so what, who cares? Afterall, the Free Press is already making a concerted effort to capture the local advertising in western Wayne County and they have even done stories about things in this area. They give away "free" everything. . .you just should have seen everyone scramble for a free hat featuring the Free Press logo at a recent Wayne Chamber of Commerce gathering.

Local merchants and politicians explain how impressed they are that the Free Press will actually produce free stories and coverage for them regarding the local retail promotions. Local merchants, scrambling for their own survival, gobble up the "free " ads. You see, they still don't get it.

If the JOA becomes a reality, all the mer-

Last Thursday about 30 of the friends of Miss Eva Smith gather at her home without any warning, it being the 16th anniversary of her birth. For four straight hours solid enjoyment reigned supreme.

The graduating class of '86 (BHS) made quite a sensation in Ypsilanti last Saturday. Photographic galleries were at a premium and when we see the impression they left we know that a great load has been lifted from the heart of the operator. We hope they will appear as well July 2 (commencement) as they did then.

President J. M. Cody (of Belleville) of the Memorial Association displayed his usual good judgement yesterday in appointing Ben. C. Johnson of Lansing, Vice President at large for the state. No better choice could have been made. Ben is a "hustler" in every sense of the word, chock full of honest energy and zeal for the interests of his old comrades who wore the blue. The valuable services he rendered at the first memorial encampment will not be soon forgotten by those who had the pleasure of meeting with the honest hearted old soldier.

Moon and Cody (hardware) placed the eavetroughs on Geo. Smock's new house last week. The house is nearly completed and will make a very snug and cozy home. George carries a black eye from the effects of a collision with a board that the wind tore from the roof and hurled at him.

Franklin Robbe helps to make up the Board of Supervisors who met in Detroit this week. Last week he was on the Board of Evaluation.

LOST: 40 feet of rope with a beef "critter" attached. For full particulars inquire of Jess Bess.

On account of the great demand for the popular piece of music "White Wings" Miss Belle Bunton has laid in a large stock. 30 days given to cash customers.

Fundraising campaign a success

To The Editor:

Thank you for the support, for muscular "Dystrophy's March Against Time Campaign."

I wish to thank all area leaders, district leaders, contributors and the merchants who have accepted M.D.A. cannisters in our area. I am confident, we will have a successful campaign due to the generousity and efforts of our volunteers.

The "marcher's" are our friends and neighbors with busy daily schedules. Please greet them with a smile, when they come to your door. No contribution is too small.

If you wish to volunteer, as a M.D.A. marcher, in your area, please phone the Campaign Office, 937-9123.

'Educational excellence' is lauded

To The Editor:

I would like to tell the people of Wayne what I think about the education our children are getting here in Wayne.

My granddaughter attends Monroe Elementary and I think she is getting an excellent education.

Recently, I attended a science fair at Monroe. It was put on by the students and I was impressed at the ideas they had come up with and their ingenuity in the way they put their ideas forward.

Whatever we, as their parents and grandparents, and other residents of Wayne put into these children's lives in the way of helping schools continue to help our children along their educational road will be worth every penny or every hour of work that we give in that direction.

Incinerator decision expected soon

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

The future of the incinerators of the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority was left in the hands of the members a special committee who met yesterday in Detroit to try and "iron out" the current controversy between Authority officials and the state Air Pollution Control Commission.

Ralph Magid, the Wayne representative from the five-member board for the Authority, said Monday that he hopes state officials and those from the Department of Natural Resources will air their apprehensions with the current $11.2 million incinerator project. In addition, he hopes the committee will decide whether the Authority needs an approved permit at the state level to proceed with the construction and improvements at the Dearborn Heights-based incinerators needed to put the five member cities of the Authority back on line with burning their garbage instead of sending it to landfills.

"Right now we want to get on with the project. We're not interested in new experimental controls to be put in," Magid said. "We're reluctant to go with a review process through the DNR who might require new controls."

The Tuesday meeting stems from a May 20 order from the state Air Pollution Control Commission to stop work on the incinerator project until the Authority had acquired an approved permit from the state DNR. Magid said this requirement took board members by surprise as they had for years only been required to garner county approval and permits and were unaware of any state-level involvement in the current project.

Magid fears that an application for a permit at the state level could mean that additional and new-technology-forms of equipment could be required, requirements that could set the project back as much as six months while increasing the cost of the total project and necessitating increased funding from the five member-communities.

The Authority is jointly owned by the cities of Wayne, Westland, Dearborn Heights, Garden City and Inkster. A June 30 vote last year approved an up to 1-mill tax increase to convert the incinerators to meet federal clean-air standards.

The plant was closed in 1982 by the federal Air Pollution Control Commission for not meeting clean-air standards. A Circuit Court judgment spelled out the steps necessary to reopen the plant which included the $11.2 million revamping and conversion to electrostatic recipricators, a smokeless form of incineration.

Magid said that permit approval is also still needed at the county level. However, he added, approval would have been coming had the current investigation from the state not surfaced.

"We felt the guidelines for this project were established in the beginning. We certainly don't want the ball game to change at this point," Magid said.

Although not positive, Magid speculates that the current problems with the Central Wayne incinerator stem from the controversial Detroit incinerators. The Detroit plant was designed in a fashion similar to the plan used at the local incinerators, Magid said, and has undergone close scrutiny by state DNR officials.

Nevertheless, Magid remained optimistic that the committee meeting would net some hard-core facts and decisions. To date, he said, the state DNR has not indicated specifically what they need to know about the Authority project or why the sudden permit requirement came from the state level.

chants in this area will see a lot of this type of "free." And it will stay "free" until we are no longer here to voice our sometimes contradictory and disturbing opinions. Then, when the people in Miami or Washington, D.C., or New York who "own" the market in this area decide to change the game, there will be no opposition.

Yes, I have confidence in the American people, yet the lack of concern about less and less information from fewer and fewer sources being available troubles me. City council meetings, voting discussions and decisions no longer seem important, that seems evident by the low voter attendance at the polls and the lack of interest in local candidates.

As we come upon the Fourth of July holiday and the approaching Statue of Liberty restoration, how can we possibly feel our freedoms threatened?

My friends, it doesn't happen overnight, as my physician friend pointed out. It didn't in Germany and if it happens here, it won't come about suddenly.

Perhaps we might pause as we approach the holiday barbecues and picnics, the freedom festival, the fireworks and the partying...perhaps we might ask ourselves a few questions:

- 1)Do you participate in the democratic process?
- 2)Do you vote regularly?
- 3)Do you attend local governmental meetings or read the minutes that appear in the newspaper?
- Have you ever run for public office or actively worked for someone who has?

Or perhaps there are some even tougher questions that need answers:

- Would you care if you no longer had to trouble yourself with voting because that bother would be taken care of for you?
- Do you care if you are provided information about government actions, or is that too bothersome to follow?
- Would it really matter if there were no local newspapers such as ourselves or the Observer or the Crier, or could you get all the news from the Free Press or the Detroit News?

Perhaps we should consider the sage advice of a rather homespun philosopher, "use it or lose it." Perhaps we should remember Jefferson's words when he explained that in a choice, "between a strong government and a free press, I would choose the latter."

Perhaps we ought to be more grateful for this island of freedom in a sea of tyranny, repression and atrocities. Perhaps we should fight every day to protect the tools of our free society and guard against the erosions at all costs.

Happy Fourth of July. God Bless America!

See you next week.

Candidate cites crisis in schools

To The Editor:

Let me first congratulate those who voted. Then, let me hasten to say, "far too few of us took the time or the interest to support our school system by voting."

To me, this is very close to a crisis in education.

To me, this is a critical problem for our schools.

I believe that it is time now for a renaissance in education. I propose that we organize "Friends For The Inkster Area Schools."

If you agree or disagree, let me hear from you. Your comment will be welcomed.

Even the festival parade featured symbols of the festival scene (below) while Belleville Firefighters showed their skills at saving lives using the "jaw" to release a trapped victim from a make-shift car carsh. Jessica Bulmon (right) found enjoyment on her own during the festivities as The Bacus Boys (bottom right) from Adrian performed on the north side of town while the other festivities took place in the heart of Belleville.

A strawberry day

"Even God was on the Strawberry Festival's side."

That's how elated festival organizers are summing up the three-day festivities that brought to the city of Belleville between 70,000 to 80,000 visitors who enjoyed perfect summer weather, outstanding entertainment including the internationally-acclaimed Herrmann's Royal Lipizzan Stallions, a star-studded parade featuring clowns, bands, and a charming Strawberry Festival Queen, 20-year-old University of Michigan engineering student, Jill Ann Karolyi.

And, of course, visitors enjoyed the omnipresent strawberries . . . in pancakes – The Belleville Rotary Club served 500 breakfasts on Saturday. Other organizations, clubs and church groups also say that the 10th annual festival "was a record-breaking one."

Leona VanBuhler, the executive secretary of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce, reported that the vendors called the festival "one of the best organized and cleanest they have participated in." And they vow to be back next year. "Some have already asked for application and registration forms," VanBuhler says.

And how can they miss.

As Pat Birbeck put it: "The festival was fantastic. Superb. God was on our side."

A first for Brazil

Battling heat and sun-baked roads, 26-year-old Ayrton Senna won the Formula One race at the Detroit-staged Grand Prix V on Sunday. Senna, driving a black Lotus-Renault, with an average speed of 84.97 over 160 miles, said after his celebrated victory that "it was a hard race, and I am happy to win it for my country." It was the first time a Brazilian has won the race which was viewed by an estimated 125,000.

At Hilltop

City golf championship tourney dates are set

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The first week of summer brings the first call for amateur golfers in the area.

The dates for the 27th Annual City Championship Golf Tournament have been set and if you are one of the many who have been telephoning the Associated Newspapers' for the pertinent information about the tourney, then read on.

The tournament will be conducted the weekend of July 19-20 at the Hilltop Golf Course in Plymouth.

"The layout is beautiful," said Bill Hawley, tournament director. "The course is in excellent condition and I believe the course possesses if not the best, then one of the best greens in the state."

Hawley noted that golfers who haven't played Hilltop in recent years "are in for a real treat."

The tournament, sponsored by the recreation departments of participating communities in conjunction with The Associated Newspapers', determines the city and township championships for the cities of Wayne, Westland, Romulus, Inkster, Garden City, and Canton Township. All residents residing in those communities are eligible to compete for the championships.

Separate city championships are held simultaneously for all competitors who will play a total of 36-holes during the two-day tourney. Competitors will play 18-holes on Saturday, July 19, then return to the course on Sunday, July 20, for the final round.

> "The course has excellent greens – the best in the state."

The golfers will also be competing for berths on their respective city's (or township's) 5-man team that will compete for the Michigan Parks and Recreation's state tournament which will be conducted later this year.

There is a $30 registration fee for the tournament – $24 per golfer which covers green's fees and $6 for trophies. No refunds after the first day of the competition.

Trophies will be presented to the first, second and third place finishing golfers in each of the championship flights. Additional flights will be organized only if total entry warrants it.

In case of a tie for a trophy, competitors involved will hold a "sudden death" playoff.

To enter this year's tournament, please fill out the entry blank accompanying this story. Make checks payable to Bill Hawley, tournament manager, and mail the entry blank along with the check to The Associated Newspapers', 35540 Michigan Avenue, Wayne, Michigan. For further information, please telephone Tom Mooradian, Associated Newspapers' staff writer at 697-9191 (Monday, Tuesday or Friday) or 729-400 (Wednesday and Thursday).

4 teams chase Romulus title

Eleven games into the 1986 softball season, four teams have established themselves as legitimate contenders for the Romulus Women's II Division Softball Championship.

With Romulus Video and Wheat & Rye deadlocked atop of the standings with 9-2 records, one victory away and breathing down the league-leaders' necks are Walter's Bar and Huron Merchants, each sporting 8-3 records.

Last week, Romulus Video held on to its share of first place with a convincing 12-6 victory over Holiday Day and a whopping 24-6 triumph over seventh-place Senate Coney Island (1-10).

Pacing the Video's assault against the Holiday Inn were Kathy Barts, Karen Weber and Cleril Biohl who each turned in with two hits. Lorri Summerfield laced a run-scoring double.

The losers wasted Sharon Dugan's pair of singles.

Mary Batterson's bat came alive against Senate as she hammered six hits, three of those going for the distance. Summerfield turned in with four runs batted in thanks to a homer and two singles and Karen Houle connected for a single and triple.

Senate's best were Sharon Gdowski who tripled home a run and Lora Branham who produced a run-scoring single.

In the meantime, Wheat & Rye missed an opportunity to take command of first when it dropped a close 3-2 decision to Huron Merchants. The merchants scored three runs in the first and hung on to hand the losers their second loss of the campaign. Monica Hoffman had three hits while Bessie Gracia and Pam Roberts checked in with two apiece for the winners.

Wheat & Rye got two hits - all singles - from Mary Day, Janet Moonaw and Sharon McBride.

Exploding for 11 runs in the bottom of the third, Wheat & Rye had an easy time against Allied Aviation which fell 19-4. Mary Day drilled a homer for one of her three hits, while Anita Glaab finished the evening with six RBIs thanks to a single, triple and homer. Terri Eberline collected three singles for the winners.

On the other side of the ledger, Mary Parks and Denise Richards each had two hits.

In the meantime Allied picked up its fifth victory in 11 starts at the expense of Timely Air Frieght, 14-9. Cindy Hollis put together two doubles and a single to pace the winners while mates Dawn Malloy, Mary Parks and Denise Richards each had a pair of safeties.

Timely was led by Connie Miller who had three hits. Bev Johnson and Shelia Robinson latched on to two hits apiece.

With Joyce Evans and Lori Hadyniak each collecting two hits, Holiday Inn discovered that it was no match for Huron Merchants who claimed a 10-5 victory. Bessie Gracia and Kathi Scarborough picked up two and three hits, respectively, while Rocky Patterson had a two-run single.

Walter's Bar erupted for eight runs in the first inning and added eight more in the third to trounce Timely Freight, 16-0, in a gamed shortened by the "mercy rule." Gail Blanchard homered for the winners and had three RBIs while Dorothy Lalonde finished with five RBIs for her two doubles. Sue Spita also had a pair of hits for the winners.

Baseball tourney in Westland

The Wayne Ford Civic League has been designated as the host for the 1986 Bronco, Pony and Colt baseball tournaments.

The tournaments will be staged starting July 16 at the league's facilities located on Wayne Road, just south of Ford Road in Westland.

"We are expecting teams from Ann Arbor, Farmington and Garden City to be competing for the various championships," said a WFCL spokesperson.

Softballers start swinging in Romulus

Hammering out a total of seven home runs, undefeated Chrysler's routed Environ 19-9 for its seventh consecutive victory in the Romulus Blue Division softball league.

Bubba Bereau drilled three homers and collected six runs batted in while teammate Bob Schulte carded a pair of roundtrippers and had 4 RBIs and Rick Burr and Jim Whaley each chipped in one homer apiece for the winners.

Environ countered with three hits each - all singles - by Mike McGuff, Jim Eagan and Greg Sauve.

Ed's Hangar stayed close on the frontrunner's heels with a 21-8 victory over Federal Mogul. The victory was Ed's sixth in seven starts. Pacing the winner's assault were Jim Thomas who had two homers and a double for seven runs batted in and Dennis Felice who also had three hits, including a two-bagger. Dan Thomas turned in with a single and double.

Federal's Steve Lynam accounted for two of his team's seven hits and Kevin Hasseil had a two-run double.

112 Bar kept its title hopes alive with a narrow 7-6 victory over sixth place Intricarb. Mike Nielson homered and Rog Sollinger had two doubles for the winners who scored a run in the bottom of the seventh to break a 6-all deadlock. Troy Reardon had a single and double for the losers and Greg Staffe's double produced two runs.

After six unsuccessful attempts, last place Local 372 broke its losing streak at the expense of Knight's Inn, 11-10. A three-run last of the seventh rally was the difference. Ray Startll punched out five hits, including a double, and Rich Littleler had two for the winners. Ken Young and John Thiede each had two for the losers.

Over in the Red Division, three teams - Birclair, Smitty's and Polka Dot - each has 6-1 records and are jammed in first place. Birclair kept its share of first place with a 11-6 victory over Movie Stop as the winners broke loose with three runs in the bottom of the sixth. Joe Scheffer, Mike Huff and Jay Close each had two hits for the winners, while Ray Watson and Tony Carr checked in with two apiece for the losers.

Smitty's wasted little time with Turn Rite as they exploded for seven runs in the second inning, added six more in the third en route to a 19-4 victory. Dave Broslow collected three hits, including a double while Martin Akari and Wayne Presley each had two hits.

For the losers Jim O'Brien and Dave Staten each blasted a pair of hits.

It was "show time" between league-leading Sun-N-Snow and Leonardos and Sun-N-Snow survived a close call, 14-13 thanks to a two-run top of the seventh rally. Both teams are sporting a 9-2 won-lost record going into the week of action.

The winners got three homers from Larry Chesno who accounted for four runs batted in; Mel Allen and Mike Neilson each had roundtrippers. John Clark and Dave Davidson each had two hits.

Leonardos wasted Todd Wallace's two homers and four hits by Mitch Mason. Kevin Collins also had a homer and a double for the losers.

10 ex-champs compete for 'Challenge Cup'

Ten former track champions are expected to be in competition as the Midwest Challenge Cup's F.A.S.T. Super Late Models make an appearance for the Grand Auto Parts "Thursday Night Special" on July 3 at Flat Rock Speedway.

"This could be one of the most competitive fields ever assembled at Flat Rock Speedway in the Late Model division," said Bill Pearsall, F.A.S.T. director. "Back in the early 1970's, the likes of Joy Fair, Danny Byrd, Joe Ruttman, John Anderson and many others battled on the Flat Rock track. But the list of just the champions we're expecting for July 3 is quite impressive."

The former track champions expected to be on hand for "Thursday Night Special" include 11-time Flat Rock king Joy Fair (Pontiac), defending Flat Rock and Toledo champ Harold Cook (Sylvania, Oh.), past Flat Rock champions Dick Barker (Sterling Heights), Ray Barnard (Ypsilanti) and Dave Kuhlman (Fowlerville).

Time trials begin at 6 and racing at 7:30 p.m.

Who's got the best fryin' fish?

By CHEF LARRY JANES
ANP Special Writer

I'll be 35 years old this August and I did something last Tuesday that really brought back the childhood memories.

My dad called me.

He asked if I were serious about going fishing for some lake perch and walleye down around Breast Bay and Boblo.

I asked if the old boat (the same one we've been fishing on for 17 years) needed some gas. "All set and ready to go" was the reply.

"Okay, I'll be down about 8:30."

"Heck, it'll be 9:30 before we get in the water" was his reply.

"You win. . .see ya at 6:30."

I watered the lawn real good that night and ventured out about 10:45 with a flashlight and an empty cottage cheese container. Wow, if the fish bite like the crawlers were crawlin' it should be an outing to remember.

And it was.

Florida has its snapper, Boston its scrod.

The great Northwest can rave about its salmon while the Northeast can boast about its cod but if you live around the Great Lakes, you just can't beat a mess of pan-fried lake perch or walleye.

Now, I'm not talking about those so-called fillets you purchase at the local supermarket that sit wrapped in the same stuff your hamburger gets wrapped in. I'm talking about the "catch'em in the afternoon and eat'em at night delicacies" that some folks pay more than $5 a pound for at the local fishmongers.

Yellow perch is a native of the Great Lakes, however, it has been transplanted and can now be found in some western lakes. I'll bet I've ogled a few old salts who think that perch and walleye are two different types of fish.

My dad always called walleye "nothin' but big, old, fat perch." (Walleye is a type of pike and yes, they do come from the same family!)

Perch comes from the latin word "perca" with a rich flesh. It is very lean and is available all year, however, you will find them in shallower waters during the winter and deeper, colder waters during the summer. Once they have been cleaned and dressed, you can expect about five to six per pound. They lend themselves best to pan frying or deep-fat frying, however, I've enjoyed them sauteed, baked, broiled and grilled. If you plan on baking them, remember that they are very delicate and have a tendency to overcook so the best way for baking is to wrap them in foil or kitchen parchment with a few fresh vegetables and a sprinkling of herbs and then to quick-bake them at about 450 degrees for no more than 10 minutes. When it comes to broiling, perch usually dry-out quickly and if cooked with the skin on, shrivel up to almost nothing. Ditto goes for the grill or barbeque.

The best you ask? Dip them in a light egg-wash, roll in seasoned flour and pan fry about three minutes on each side in some hot oil or drawn butter. Walleye fillets and steaks tend to be somewhat larger and thicker and in addition to being great fried, make outstanding broiler additions.

I've included a secret batter recipe that comes from Grandma Janes secret black suitcase hidden by the sewing machine in the bottom of the china cabinet.

Can't find a boat and are scared to hunt for nightcrawlers? Just drive up and down the river heading for Amherstburg or Monroe and find a fishing bait and tackle joint. Maybe you'll be lucky enough to meet up with some fresh-caught fillets that just finished flopping around on the bottom of the boat. Heck, if worst comes to worst, the supermarket will take you're check (With proper I.D.).

Better yet . . . call your dad or your kid, pick up a six pack and two dozen crawlers and just sit back and talk. Any fish you catch will be icing on the cake!

GRANDMA JANES SECRET BEER BATTER

2 ½ cups of flour
¼ teaspoon dill weed
a good grind of fresh black pepper
1 can beer
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Sift the dry ingredients together. Stir in parsley and add about 1 cup of beer. Using a wire whisk, whisk until smooth, adding more beer, if necessary. Heat fat in the fryer to 380 degrees. Dip the perch fillets in the batter and deep fry until golden. Do not crowd the fryer.

SAUTEED PERCH AMANDINE

8-12 perch fillets
The juice of 1 fresh lemon
1 cup slivered almonds
chopped parsley
½ cup flour
6 tablespoons butter or oil
salt and pepper to taste

Dip the perch or walleye fillets in lemon juice and then in the flour. Set aside for 5 minutes to rest. Meanwhile, heat oil or butter in sautee pan and pan fry the fillets until delicately browned on both sides. Place fish on a hot platter. Increase heat in the skillet to high. Add almonds and brown them in the pan as quickly as possible.

Just before serving, douse the almonds with the remaining lemon juice and chopped parsley. Pour almond mixture over the fillets. Enjoy!

PERCH POLONAISE

10 perch fillets
¼ cup flour
10 sprigs fresh dill
chopped parsley to garnish
¼ cup seasoned breadcrumbs
3 onions, sliced thin
1 ½ cups sour cream

Line a well-oiled loaf pan with breadcrumbs. Dredge the fillets with the flour and season them with salt and pepper. Place 2 fillets on the bottom of the pan, top with overlapping slices of thin onion then dill. Repeat. Cover thoroughly with sour cream and

ROAST CORN

Remove outer husks from young tender corn; turn back inner husks and remove silk. Spread corn with softened butter. Then pull husks back over ears, tying with fine wire. Roast on grill over hot coals, turning frequently until done, 20 to 30 minutes. Serve at once with salt, pepper and more butter.

Or, follow direction above, except re-wrap corn in husks then in heavy-duty aluminum foil. Lay on ash grey coals for 20 to 30 minutes, turning once.

Rafters 'rebounds' to new prosperity

business profile

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

What is one to do with an old building that has been vacant for four years, has poor plumbing and heating and will require countless repairs?

Sell it to a roller skating instructor and watch it emerge as one of the leading entertainment centers in the area.

Those words of advice are perhaps less-than prophetic and are possibly an over-generalization, but the story is far from being a myth for 30-year-old Kathy Connelly of Belleville who with the help of her husband and friend turned a vacant building on the I-94 Service Drive in Belleville into the now prospering Rafters and Rebound.

Connelly and husband, Russ, make up the dynamic duo entrepreneurs who with partner Bill Hollerman bought the old building in January and opened it as a restaurant by the end of the month.

"There was a lot of renovating. This building had been vacant since 1982. The raquetball courts were in real bad shape," Connelly said.

The building which was once a separate restaurant and next-door health spa was left vacant after the former restaurant owners were closed down by the state Liquor Control Commission. Connelly and her husband purchased the facilities and decided to reopen with an all-around entertainment scheme.

Rafters, the restaurant portion of the duo-business, is a lunchtime eatery and evening night club. A huge dance floor offers patrons ample space to "twist and shout" to the tunes of some of the hottest pop and top-40s bands in the area.

Rebound, the health club next door to the restaurant, features saunas, a weight room, tanning facilities, and a health and fitness program. At least three health professionals are always on hand, Connelly said, to assist patrons while "working out" and to help them find the fitness and health program that bests fits their individual needs.

Connelly attributes the unusual boom of her young business to its entertainment style and the people it attracts. For as Connelly said, once the people start coming, others will follow.

"Rafters has people. People go where other people are. We have good entertainment and food. It's always just a good time," she said.

CONNELLY: Roller skating instructor turns into local business owner.

At age 30, Connelly said she never expected to jump from her previous job as a roller skating instructor to her latest venture as a business owner. The difference between the two is responsibility, she commented, but it's responsibility that she has come to enjoy.

"I'm glad I did it. I like to do a little bit of everything," said Connelly. "I've never been in business before, but it's just like roller skating – you never know until you try something."

A Belleville resident, Connelly said that the three owners plan to expand their operation by maintaining longer hours after the summer months. As for the long-range future, who knows, she said, a whole chain of Rafters and Rebounds isn't out of sight.

"Naturally, I was young. I was never around someone who owned a business. It's a huge responsibility, but you get used to it," she quippped, "especially in a little town like Belleville. And, you can't stop with just one (business)."

Summer job options plentiful

By RAY DAY
ANP News Editor

More than 200 job applicants each Friday rushed into the offices of Personnel Pool four years ago to fill out an application and inch closer to abandoning the unemployment line and entering the work force.

Today, Friday sees about 30 job seekers file into the office, a change in working life that has Marilyn Hardy, sales manager for the firm, believing that the current upturn in the job market will find the area in a crisis situation in a few years, a crisis of having too few workers to fill too many jobs.

Still, Hardy said, summertime is traditionally the season for college and high school students to depart from the books and term papers for a semester or two and comb the streets in search of that perfect job opportunity, the one that will help finance that new car or another term at the old alma mater.

"Usually in the summer, what we try to do is get the college students working all summer long," Hardy said. "We are continually looking for people who want to work. If they're not working and they want to work, there is no excuse to be without a job."

Hardy reported that with the upswing in the job market of late came the greater use of job placement agencies such as Personnel Pool. Hardy said the change came toward the end of the 1982 recession when leary employers needed extra help but were hesitant to increase staffing on a permanent basis. The trend has become the rule, she continued, with more and more businesses relying solely on placement agencies to provide their work force.

Applicants to Personnel Pool are first tested and then screened and placed in either the clerical or industrial field. A general aptitude test ensures that all job seekers possess minimal reading and writing abilities, Hardy said, while typing and dictation tests for the clerical applicants determine individual skill levels.

Hardy said that seven out of 10 applicants are placed in a job after coming to the agency. Wages are usually minimum and no up-front fee is required. However, she said, those people that secure a job through the agency remain an employee of Personnel Pool and are paid by the company for at least 12 weeks.

Although most job placement agencies are traditionally thought of as secreterial centers or ones for file clerks and typists to find work, Hardy said that industrial jobs account for about 50 percent of all the jobs available. These positions include high-low drivers, machine operators, tool and die workers and retail demonstrators. And, Hardy said, that list is growing as more and more employers find these agencies more convenient and reliable that the hire-and-fire method of years past.

"The companies can use these people when they need them. It's a good way to screen the employees," Hardy said. "And, we guarantee all of our employees."

Hardy pointed out that summertime jobs are plentiful this year with "help wanted" signs springing up everywhere.

"I think the people that went down south for jobs had better come back up. You're seeing help wanted signs at McDonald's and places where you had never before seen signs in front," Hardy commented. mented.

Aside from Personnel Pool and some of Hardy points to help wanted signs at fast-food restaurants as evidence of the new working lifestyle.

Children victims of crime

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

Child molesting is a crime that we believe "can't happen here." But, contrary to what we may wish to accept as occurring in our community, a Wayne elementary school teacher is facing charges of molesting sixth-grade girls, and a 21-year-old Dearborn man was arrested by Canton police for an attack on a school girl.

Thomas Lyon, 52, an art instructor at the Monroe and Elliott elementary schools was arraigned on three counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct and is scheduled for a preliminary hearing on July 2 at the 29th District Court in Wayne. Lyon, who has been suspended from his job since February, has filed a lawsuit to prevent his firing by the Wayne-Westland School District prior to the resolution of the criminal case.

Paul Brian Hurin of Dearborn, also faces charges of second-degree sexual criminal conduct resulting from a June 3 attack on a Hulsing Elementary School student who was traveling along a wooded path leading to the school.

Westland Police Sgt. Albert George of the Youth Bureau reported an increase in the number to 10- to 12-year-old girls sexually abused by live-in companions of their mothers. Other area youth officers report similar instances of child sexual abuse in their communities.

According to information distriubted at the Speaker's Conference on Crime Prevention, the sexual abuse of children is occurring with alarming frequency. The National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect estimates that in 1983 nearly 72,000 children were reported as sexually maltreated by a parent or household member.

"Even more disturbing is that an unknown number of similar cases never reach the attention of authorities," noted a report by the National Institute of Justice. "Very young children may lack the verbal capacity to report an incident or the knowledge that the incident is inappropriate or criminal."

The report states that older children are often "too embarrassed" to report the incident and many child victims are threatened into silence.

Cases of child sexual abuse that are filed with police may not result in prosecution because of inability to establish a crime, insufficient evidence, unwillingness to expose the child to additional trauma and a fear of the adverse effects of the criminal justice system on child victims and their families.

Some suggestions to aid the child witness incude: (1) Preparing child victims before their courtroom appearances by "demystifying" the courtroom; (2) Enhancing the child's communication through dolls, artwork and simplified vocabulary, and, (3) Modifying the physical environment by providing a small chair for the child and having the judge sit on the level of the child, for example.

In addition, legislative changes which would permit child witnesses to have a supportive person present during the courtroom proceedings and using a single, trained interviewer in one joint investigation of the abuse charges are thought to be positive steps in easing the trauma of the young witness.

Four states allow a child to testify with the use of closed circuit television from a room adjacent to the courtroom. These laws, effective in Kentucky, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas, also permit the attorney and a supportive adult to be present with the child during the testimony. The defendent and equipment operators may also be present, but the child is not allowed to see or hear them.

bake at 375 degrees for 25-30 minutes or until cream is a beautiful golden color. Unmold and sprinkle with fresh chopped parsley and dill. Serve with boiled potatoes and cole slaw.

Chef's Secret:
When baking or broiling fish in the oven, place a pie plate that has been sprinkled with 1 cup of baking soda in the bottom of the oven and all fish odors will be absorbed and you're kitchen won't smell like. . . .

BROILED PERCH MACINAW
(Yes, I know I said not to broil it but if you do it this way, it's great and bound to get raves!)

6 large fillets of perch or walleye
½ cup seasoned breadcrumbs
1 small onion, minced fine
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon chili powder
⅛ teaspoon thyme
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon marjoram
Lemon to garnish

Wipe fish with damp cloth. Place in a greased, shallow pie plat, set aside. Combine remaining ingredients except lemon and mix well. Spread mixture evenly over the fillets and broil slowly for only 15 minutes. (do not flip) Arrange on a heated platter, garnish with lemon.

LOW CALORIE PERCH TARRAGON
(Serves 2)
4 small perch fillets
¼ cup chicken broth/bouillon
2 teaspoon tarragon, crushed
the juice of 1 lemon

In a non-stick skillet, heat the broth/bouillon until it is reduced by half. Add the fillets and continue cooking on high heat until the liquid has evaporated. Sprinkle the fillets with tarragon. Flip and add the juice of the lemon. When the juice hits the bottom of the hot skillet, a luscious sauce should be seen, Immediately place fillets on a heated place and cover with any sauce left in the bottom of the pan.

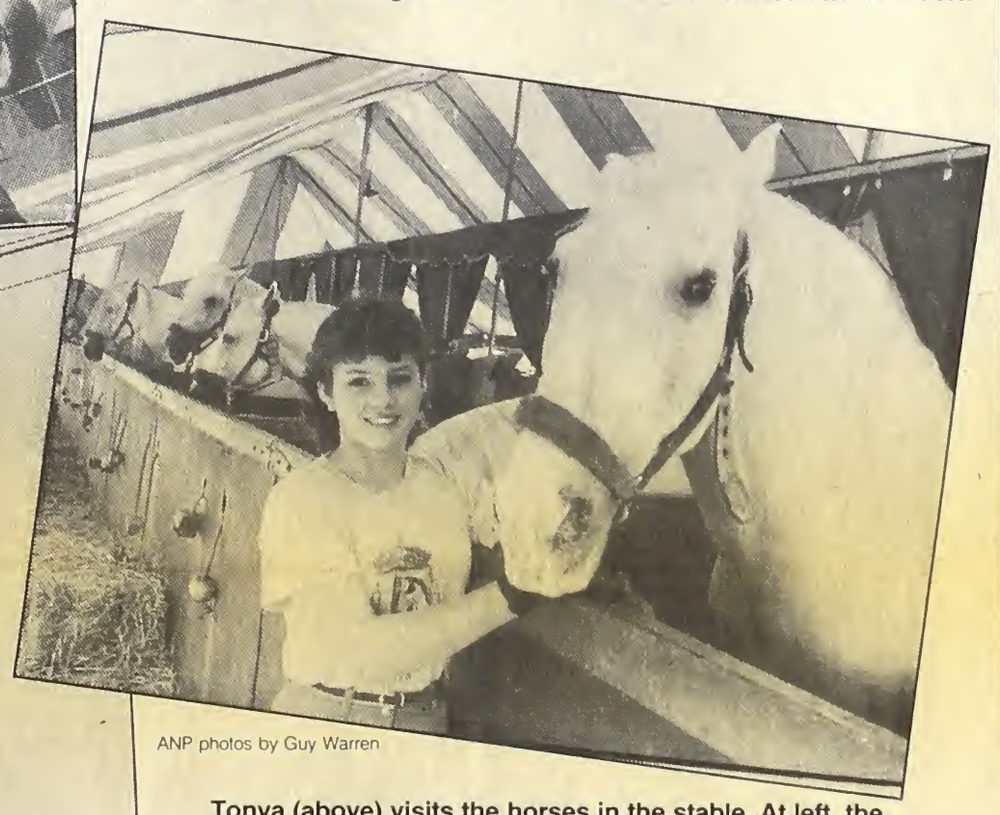
Lipizzans end another trip to area



ANP photos by Guy Warren

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

The performance of Herrmann's Royal Lipizzans Stallions is more than a horse show, it is an exhibition of art, culture and history and, perhaps, a touch of ballet.

Appearing last weekend in Belleville, the 18 stallions and their graceful riders entertained their audience with intricate choreography and almost-impossible-to-believe high leaps into the air.

Colonel Otto Herrmann, 60, speaks of the stallions as "my children" and trains them with love and patience. He cues the horses with a lightweight whip, using it as a conductor wields a baton, not as an instrument to hurt or to punish.

Hermann delights in retelling the history of the horses – which date back to Caesar's time – and recounting the dramatic rescue of the stallions at the end of World War II by General George Patton.

The Lipizzaner, Herrmann said, is the "ballerina of the horse world." Its high degree of intelligence, remarkable memory and abilty to learn makes it a horse for any purpose. Most Lipizzaner colts are born dark brown or black and achieve their pure white color after six to 10 years. Training of the stallions takes two years.

Their spectacular moves are taken from the combat maneuvers of the 17th century. The Levade, for example, was developed to rise the leading officer above the scene of battle to survey his position. The move requires the stallion to squat deep on its haunches and hold a 45 degree angle for several seconds. In the Capriole, the stallion leaps horizontally off the ground with its front legs tucked, kicking out with his hind legs at the height of his jump. The Courbette, which is one of the most strenuous moves in the "airs above ground," requires the horse to leap forward on its hind quarters three or four times, not touching the ground with its forefeet.

Riding of the famous horses was limited to the aristocracy in Austria, with women never being allowed the privilege. Today the riders of the white stallions are usually women, among them Herrmanns' daughter, Gabriella.

Herrmann limits his road trips to five months of the year so he does not overtax the horses. The horses and their trainers spend winters in Myakka City, Fla., near Sarasota. He invites the public to visit the stables and to watch the training from January through March.

The colonel cautions fans to watch for the name – The Original Herrmann Royal Lipizzan Stallions – and not to confuse his horses with another company with a similar name.

The horses are on the road now, traveling to the next fair, festival or special performance. A future trip to the area is probably scheduled. If it is, don't miss the performance. Ask any of the people who sat in the stadium on Saturday or Sunday and were impressed by fine performances by 18 magnificent stallions and their capable riders.

Jobs

the other job placement centers, job training and placement is also available for certain residents through government-funded job training networks.

The Wayne County Private Industry Corporation is one such agency designed to train workers in specific fields and find related positions for participants once their training has been completed.

Even with these opportinuties, however, Hardy explained that jobs aren't just popping up and finding workers.

"There are so many people who fill out an application and just don't want to work," Hardy said. "The jobs are out there . . . there's no excuse to be without one."

Proof You Don't Have To Be Rich
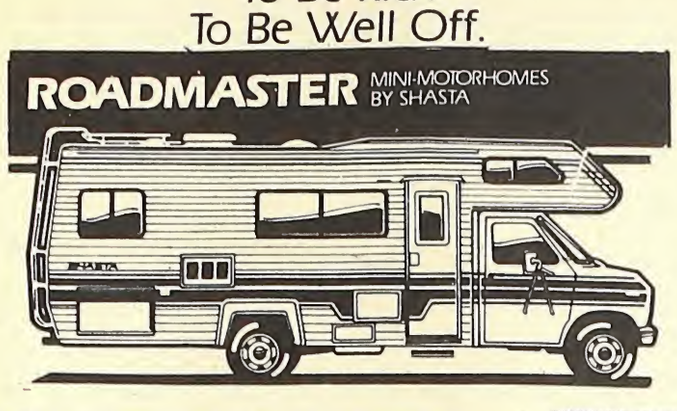
To Be Well Off.



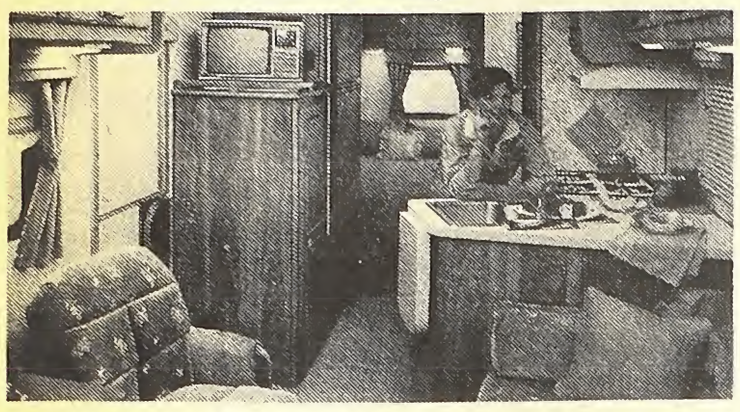
WE'VE BEEN WORKING ON YOUR VACATION PLANS FOR OVER 45 YEARS

For 45 years Shasta has been building quality recreational vehicles for affordable family fun. That's why Shasta is so often referred to as America's Second Home. Sooner or later, it becomes the dream of every American to own a second home somewhere in this vast beautiful country of ours.

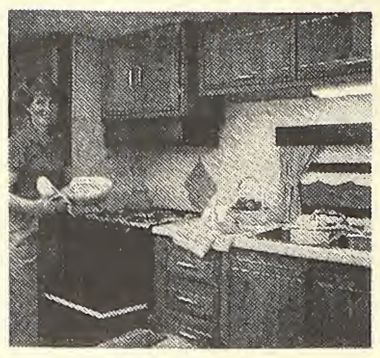
In the mountains. Along the desert. By the river, lake or ocean.

And for 45 years the makers of Shasta recreational vehicles have helped bring that dream within reach of more people than just about anyone.

You can choose from motorhomes, mini-motorhomes, micro-minis, travel trailers, fifth wheels, and camping trailers to get away from it all. But just getting away isn't enough.



You want to do it with style—that flair that says a lot about your taste for the finer things in life. And with almost half a century of experience behind us, we know how to build recreational vehicles at a modest price without leaving behind the finer comforts of home.



That's why our real business isn't building recreational vehicles. It's building Second Homes for people like you. See your Shasta dealer today.

Quadrunner – A whole new breed

LT 4WD

The new LT4WD Quadrunner is part jackrabbit, part mountain goat and all Suzuki. With its combination of 15 forward speeds and 2WD, 4WD and 4WD with front differential lock, it can go over or through obstacles that would send other ATVs home. And to make getting there comfortable for work or play, the Quadrunner has an ATV first: Four-Wheel Independent Suspension. For a true all-terrain vehicle, check out the LT4WD Quadrunner today.

Around the world in '80s

From colonial uniforms of the 1780s to pop music fashion of the 1980s, the Westland Summer Festival last year smartly spanned the ages. Clockwise from above right, the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps; classic combustion in the form Model A's, Model T's and other antique autos; and Westlanders Carolyn Hewitt and Cassandra Tutro, winners in the Madonna and Cyndi Lauper Look Alike contests.

Festival is sure to delight all age groups

It's independence in the fun sense!

Welcome the 16th Annual Westland Summer Festival and its Fourth of July weekend festivities.

The festival will span five days, July 2 through July 6, with activities and events to provide enjoyment for the entire family.

All entertainment for the festival is free. Several non-profit groups will sponsor booths and events to help raise funds for area projects and organizations.

Carnival rides require the purchase of tickets that will be available on the carnival grounds.

Following are some highlights and helpful hints to keep in mind as you attend the festival:

• Alcohol – A beer tent will be provided on the grounds for those who prefer brewed ale to ginger ale. All alcoholic beverages must be purchased and consumed in the beer tent area.

• Bike Decorating Contest/Parade – Polish those pedals and grease those gears. The contest is open to those 15 and under. Participants MUST meet in the Farmer Jack parking lot (located at the Wildwood Shopping Center) with bikes decorated at 6 p.m., Wednesday, July 3. For more information, contact Sandy Black at 729-1732 after 5 p.m.

• Dunk Tank – The Westland Fire Department will be featuring a dunk tank this year with proceeds going to the U-M Burn Center. Rumors have it that the "dunkee" will be most "dunk-worthy." Stop by and see for yourself.

• Ecumenical Service – Members of all faiths are invited to attend a non-denominational service Sunday, July 6, beginning at 8 a.m. A perfect way to start a day for the family.

• Fireworks – Get ready to oooh and aaah with a spectacular fireworks presentation planned for Sunday, July 6, at 10 p.m. The display will be second only to the Detroit display in size and variety. Bring a blanket and enjoy.

• Lost Children/Lost Parents – Councilwoman Deloris Newell who is serving her sixth year as chairman of the board of directors for the festival offers the following advice to help prevent this from happening to you:

"When you bring your children to the festival and you plan to separate, set a time and place to meet them. For smaller children, the food tent is an excellent place. Tell them, 'If you should get lost, wait for me here. I will keep checking here for you.' "

• Parking – There will be no public parking on the festival grounds. Parking will be at John Glenn High School and the Voc-Tech center with Nankin Transit providing free shuttle service to and from the festival.

Streamer weavers

Young Westlanders strung streamers through spokes and fastened flags to front forks in preparation for their participation in the bike decorating contest last year. The contest returns again this year with trophies, ribbons and prizes awarded to dedicated decorators.
